I was so excited to be heading overseas to Switzerland and England! I'd been to London several times now, but never to Zurich and unfortunately I only spent three days there and it was way too short.

What I did get to see was beautiful! The people were friendly and the city very clean. I wish I could have stayed another week. When I did try to leave and fly to London, my plane was first delayed, then canceled, and I was rebooked on another airline. So I had to run to the opposite end of the Zurich airport with my huge tits bouncing away. With my cleavage aching from the strain, I finally got to the new airline and? Everyone was told it was a no-go, because they had to keep on schedule and the rebooking and checking our luggage would take too long. Then we were told the original flight was back on, after they finished maintenance. So then I had to go back to the other end of the airport and wait another hour or so to be told it couldn't be fixed that night and there were no more flights that night to London. Boob massage anyone? Every one was rebooked on flights for the next day and got vouchers for a meal, and hotel, but nobody took me up on the boob massage.

Since I got in so late to the hotel and was booked on the first flight in the morning, I only got a couple of hours of sleep. Luckily I made it to London the next morning without any further issues.

I spent four superb days in London! My friend T was in town so we got together for a stroll through London and a dinner. It was great to catch up with him. I also had a fun time catching up with all my other friends with my dances and even met some new people.

November 16 - 22

I had a couple of days home to catch up on rest and get ready for my next trip to Florence, South Carolina to the Trophy club. I had such a nice time there. They had a unique law that made them close earlier on Saturday nights, so people could get up the next morning for Church. I guess they go from holding my big tits at night to holding a big bible in the morning!

November 23 - 30

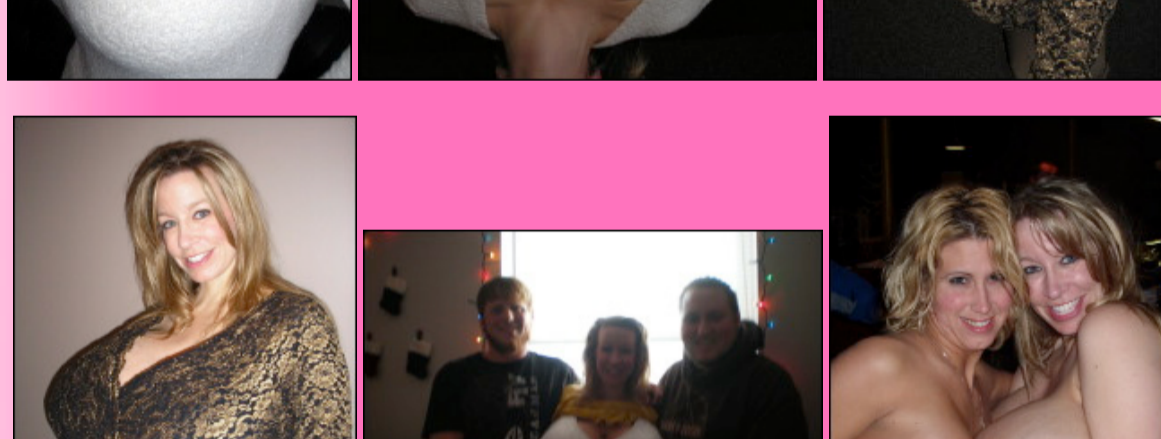

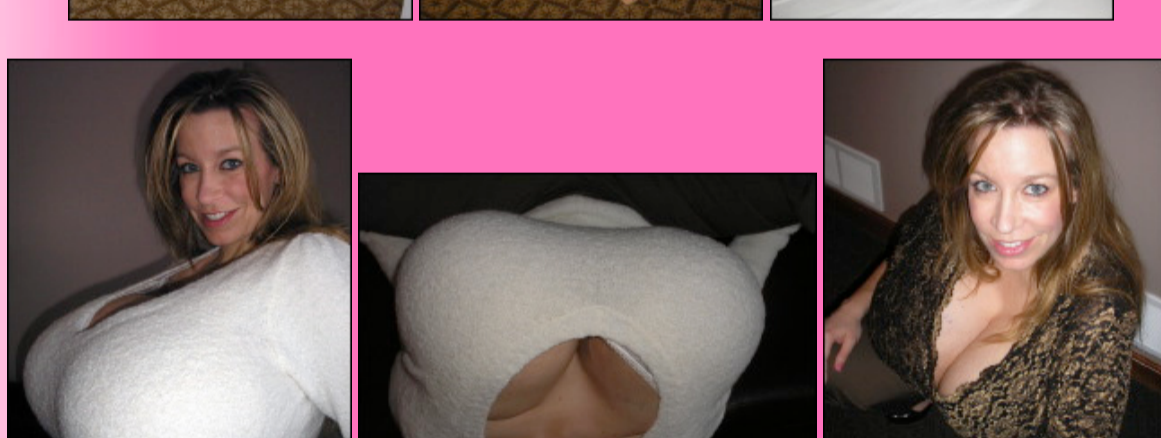

Next up, I had several days of photo shoots before Thanksgiving. It was a great holiday like usual! I just love seeing everyone and catching up. It was especially good to see my grandparents, as my grandfather had just gotten over pneumonia. He was looking good and full of energy! I was in charge of bringing a couple of appetizers which seemed to go over very well. We drew names for the Upside down huge boobies!

Christmas gift exchange and several family members made plans to head out into the Christmas shopping frenzy the next day, Black Friday. Not me though, I wanted to pass on that mess! Just can't handle all the long lines and the elbows banging into my boobs. So instead of shopping, I invited a couple of friends over to help me put up my Christmas tree and decorate it, as well as all the other decorations for the house. It was a lot of fun, as we shared a few bottles of wine and had a lot of silliness going on! Oh well, 'Tis the season to be merry!"

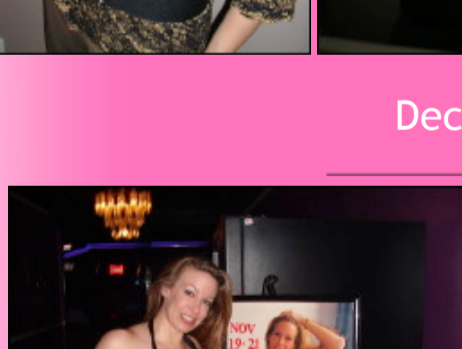

DECEMBER 1 - 6

The beginning of December had me off to Aberdeen, South Dakota to the club, Pirates Cove. It was only about four hours away by car, but I flew anyway because of the uncertain travel conditions this time of year. Don't want my boobs to freeze if I get stranded! I knew the owner of the club from the Vegas Expo. Her name is Missy, and she's pretty young and so hot! I was really looking forward to heading over there to work for her. The club was a lot of fun and the staff certainly likes to have a good time (and drink a lot). You have to wear pasties at this club, which was the only drag, but the guys didn't seem to mind. I did a radio show with Missy one morning and went out for dinner and drinks with her a couple of nights. I had so much fun! I can't wait to go back.

December 7 - 31

The next week I was off to Florida for dances first in Miami followed by Orlando. Of course the weather was wonderful! Especially this time of year for a girl coming from Minnesota. After dancing in Miami, I rented a car to drive to Orlando. Like always, when renting, I deliberated over getting the extra coverage, or just using my own insurance. I chose not to accept the extra coverage. Irony of ironies, of course, I leave the rental lot and get about two blocks when some moron rear ends me at a red light! Thankfully, I was alright. The car had a crack and a scratch on the rear bumper and the license plate was bent. I got the guy's information (it took awhile to get his eyes off my chest) and drove off for Orlando in a bad mood. The damage wasn't much, so I thought I'd see if I could get it past the rental people. I just didn't want to deal with all the paper work, which there would undoubtedly be! Thankfully it didn't get noticed!

After Florida, I was back home to get ready for the holidays! I didn't have a lot left to purchase because I did a lot of shopping online while on the road. But I had a lot to wrap when I got home! Thankfully all the packages arrived! I wasn't too sure because we had a snowstorm, but the delivery guys are so sweet to me and carried them up my super-long driveway instead of running the risk of getting stuck. So I was a wrapping machine for several days. Then, the Christmas festivities began! I had several days of family gatherings. Again it was fun to see everybody and kick back and have a good time with them.

That's some pretty deep cleavage! After Christmas I took off for Orange County for a day to visit a friend, and then was back home to celebrate the new year! On New Year's Eve I had a date. It was a fun time, we spent the day at the Titanic exhibit in St. Paul, which was great, then went out to dinner which was very nice, and yummy (him and the dinner). Then we hit some clubs downtown, had some drinks and cut loose a bit. It was a lot of fun and we got home way too late, but slept in (after bringing in the new year with orgasmic delight) late on New Year's day.

Happy New Year!

A big boob hug to all, Chelsea Charms
